ICASSP 2002

Participation Opportunities

ICASSP 2002 in Orlando promises to be one of the most exciting and well-attended conferences in the series. In addition to innovations in the conference and exhibit hall, we are offering new conference support opportunities for companies. There are three possible levels of participation: Lead Industry Supporter, Industry Supporter, and Conference Supporter. Companies may participate by choosing a specific item or event to support, or they may contribute at a specified level. All participants will be prominently recognized on the website, in the exhibit hall, in the advance program, and in conjunction with the event or item supported. In addition, if a company supports an event which requires a ticket, their contribution will be recognized on the ticket as well. The following conference support opportunities are broken down by specific level, and the individual events or items are then listed.
